FORCED LABOUR AND CHILD LABOUR IN CANADIAN SUPPLY CHAINS REPORT FOR FISCAL 2025

Metropolitan Wire Canada Ltd. (herein referred to as “Metro”) is committed to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business relationships and takes a zero tolerance approach to forced labour and child labour. This Statement has been prepared in compliance with the Fighting Against Forced Labour and Child Labour in Supply Chains Act (Canada) (the “Act”) with respect to the period beginning September 1, 2024 and ending August 31, 2025 (“Fiscal 2025”). This Statement sets out the steps that Metro has taken during Fiscal 2025 to prevent and reduce the risk that forced labour or child labour is used at any step in the production of goods by Metro or of goods imported into Canada by Metro.

We expect our suppliers, and their supply chains, to take all reasonable and practical steps to comply with the Act. We also expect our suppliers, and their supply chains, to engage in good employment practices and to comply with all relevant legislation and regulations in the countries in which they operate. This statement covers the provision of goods and services provided from our offices in Canada.

Our Structure, Activities and Supply Chains

Metropolitan Wire Canada Ltd. and its corporate parent, Ali Group North America, are global leaders in manufacturing and distributing commercial foodservice equipment and systems for professional applications. Metropolitan Wire Canada Ltd. offers best-in-class, shelving and storage solutions. With a global reach of operations and a global span of supply chains, we source our raw materials and semi-finished goods by careful selection and spot audits of our supply partners.

In total, we procure goods and services from approximately 300 suppliers worldwide, with the majority of our suppliers being located in the United States of America.

Mexico represents a key manufacturing and sourcing region for certain materials and components, and a limited number of suppliers are located in Asia. As part of our strategic sourcing approach, Metro continues to reduce reliance on higher-risk jurisdictions where practical, while maintaining continuity of supply and quality.

Measures that we have taken to identify and mitigate risks

We expect third parties with which we work to adhere to business principles and values similar to our own and to comply with all applicable laws and regulations. Before making any commitments towards third parties, we take steps to appropriately evaluate the relationship and mitigate any associated risks by carrying out risk-based due diligence and checks. Risk considerations may include geography, type of goods or services, supplier maturity and visibility into lower-tier sourcing.

Our assessment is designed to identify higher-risk relationships for additional scrutiny. Where warranted, we may seek further information from suppliers regarding their labour practices, relevant policies, subcontracting arrangements and source locations, and we may increase the frequency or depth of supplier review activities based on the level of risk identified.

To mitigate the risk of forced labour or child labour in our supply chain, our due diligence approach includes the following steps:

- Our supply agreements include provisions that require our suppliers to comply with the laws of the jurisdictions in which they operate as well as provisions that preclude the use of child labour and/or forced labour in the manufacture and production of any of the goods we purchase from our suppliers.
- All of our suppliers receive a “supplier code of conduct” which details the expectations we have for the behaviour of all suppliers in regard to ethics, human rights, labour and the environment. The code of conduct specifically calls out the prohibition of any forced or child labour.
- We perform periodic supplier visits so that we can assess our suppliers’ capabilities and compliance with our agreements, policies and expectations. Our supplier visits provide us with the opportunity to determine whether, both in spirit and in letter, our suppliers are honouring our standards and beliefs of safe, sustainable and ethical manufacture and sourcing. A critical part of this auditing is to confirm that our suppliers and partners meet acceptable employment standards in the conduct of their activities.

- Where concerns are identified, we follow an escalation process that may include additional information requests, corrective action expectations and, where warranted, reconsideration of the commercial relationship.

Further steps to prevent Forced Labour in our business.

Recognising the complex nature of modern supply chains and continual changing business needs, we will continue to review all policies and ensure that we take a proactive approach to policy change and development. After these reviews, changes and modifications will be communicated to all parties seeking their support and buy in.

As part of the measurement of the effectiveness of the forced labour policy, we will continually review the following performance measures:

- Actions and changes to our supplier audit process
- Identification of suppliers and regions where there may be potential risk.
- Investigations and actions whereby risk and deviation from our policy exists.
- Staff awareness and training activities

Remediation Measures

We maintain procedures to investigate and respond to credible allegations or indicators of forced labour or child labour in our activities or supply chains, including corrective action expectations and escalation where warranted. As we did not identify any incidents of forced labour or child labour in our activities or supply chains in Fiscal 2024, we did not need to take any measures to remediate an incident.

Internal training

As part of our ongoing training and development plan, we ensure that our employees are made aware of our policies and informed on any changes that may affect them as they occur. We maintain communication channels intended to ensure that concerns can be raised and reviewed, including escalation pathways to management. We continue to evaluate opportunities to enhance role-appropriate awareness for employees involved in procurement and supply chain activities.

Our progress and effectiveness

As part of our governance processes, we monitor compliance with our policies on an ongoing basis. We also review any concerns raised through our whistleblower policy and other informal mechanisms of employee feedback. To date no significant concerns or complaints have been identified.

We also assess the effectiveness of our policies by:

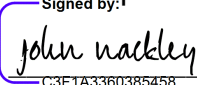

- Setting up a regular review or audit of the organization's policies and procedures related to forced labour and child labour.
- Engaging with suppliers, where appropriate, to reinforce expectations and to address identified risks.

Statement

This Statement sets out the steps we have taken and are continuing to take to ensure that forced labour and child labour is not taking place in any part of our Canadian business or supply chains. This Statement is also available on our company website at www.Metro.com
